MR. DE VALERA'S PLANS FOR IRISH REPUBLIC

TROCADERO HOTEL TRAGEDY

FOREIGNER FOUND DEAD IN BATH

GAS POISONING

LETTER ADDRESSED TO WIFE

Married in Hongkong only a few weeks ago, John Kanis, a native of Amsterdam, and an agent of the Commercial and Credit Information Bureau, was found dead from coal-gas poisoning at the Hotel Trocadero Hotel, Kowloon, early this morning.

All the circumstances of the shocking tragedy point to suicide during a fit of depression.

The dead man, who was 36 years of age, had been living with his wife since their marriage in a flat at Lock Road, Kowloon, within a hundred yards of the Trocadero Hotel.

BOOKED ROOM

Last night, for some reason unexplained, Mr. Kanis did not go home but went to the Trocadero Hotel and booked a room for the night.

This morning, round about 7.30 a.m. a strong smell of gas was found to be issuing from one of the bath-rooms. Heavy knocking on the door failed to produce any response and suspicion having been aroused, the police were sent for and the door broken in.

IN PYJAMAS

Mr. Kanis was found dead, lying in the empty bath clad only in his pyjamas. The gas was turned full on.

Letters were found addressed to his wife, who was formerly Miss Mira Rebroff, of Rue Bourgogne, Shanghai, but the nature of the contents have, naturally, not been divulged.

Medical examination suggested that the victim of the tragedy had been dead for several hours and it is the police theory that he went to the bathroom soon after retiring for the night, turned the gas on and laid in the bath calmly until he was overcome by the fumes.

SHANGHAI MAN

The late Mr. Kanis belonged to the Shanghai office of the Commercial and Credit Information Bureau, which also has offices in Hongkong. He was in the habit of travelling between the two ports, staying in Hongkong for extended periods at intervals.

Before his marriage, he usually stayed at the Metropole Hotel, Hongkong.

OLYMPIC SCORE BOARD

AMERICA EASILY LEADING

(Telegraph Special)

Los Angeles, Aug. 3. The unofficial score-card for the Olympic Games shows that America is easily leading at present, Germany clinging to second place, with France close behind.

Britain is at present ninth on the list, with only sixteen points. The leading positions are:

United States 138½.
Germany 47½.
France 46.

CAPTAIN LANCASTER ON TRIAL

MIAMI SHOOTING TRAGEDY

MRS. KEITH MILLER'S QUARREL STORY

SUICIDE THREAT

Miami, Aug. 3. Astonishing evidence was forthcoming at to-day's proceedings in the trial for murder of Captain William M. Lancaster, the well-known British aviator, whose arrest three months ago caused a widespread sensation.

Captain Lancaster is standing trial for the murder of Mr. Haden Clark, an American aviator, who was engaged to be married to Mrs. Keith Miller, the Australian aviator, who has undertaken numerous long distance flights accompanied by Captain Lancaster.

Haden Clark was found shot dead on the sleeping porch of Mrs. Miller's residence at Miami towards the end of April. Letters were found suggestive of suicide, but it is alleged by the Prosecuting Attorney that these letters were forgeries.

FORGED LETTERS

Captain Lancashire was quoted as having admitted that when he was first awakened by the shot, his first thought was to protect Mrs. Keith Miller and himself. Accordingly he wrote the notes on Mr. Clark's typewriter and attempted to revive the shot man, who was unconscious with a bullet wound in his head, to get him to sign them. Being unable to arouse him, however, it is stated that Captain Lancaster admitted having taken pencil and signed one of the notes "Haden" and the other simply "H."

The first of the notes in question was addressed to "Chubbie" (Mrs. Keith Miller) and declared that the writer could not continue in the present economic situation. The other, addressed to Captain Lancaster, read: "Bill, I can't make the grade. Tell Chubbie of our talk."

MRS. MILLER'S EVIDENCE.

The sensations to-day were provided by Mrs. Keith Miller, who went into the witness box and gave a graphic account of events on the night of the tragedy.

She declared that Captain Lancaster was extremely depressed when he heard that she was engaged to Mr. Haden Clark.

He planned suicide, she said.

He contemplated arranging an aeroplane crash in order that she would have as his life insurance (G$1,000) as a wedding present, and he only abandoned the project when he learned that the company with which he was insured had failed.

VIOLENT QUARREL

On the night of the tragedy, the bitterness between the two men manifested itself early on.

Mrs. Keith Miller gave details of a violent quarrel between them but declared that their differences were composed later and that they were in quite a cheerful mood when they retired for the night.

Captain Lancaster declares that he is absolutely innocent, though admitting that the circumstantial evidence requires an explanation.

It will be recalled that in his first statement to the police Captain Lancashire described how he and Mr. Clark retired at about a quarter to one on the morning of April 21 to the porch where they slept in Mrs. Miller's house.

"We talked for about an hour of home troubles and several other things," he said. "We were in a very cheerful mood and were laughing together."

Some time later, he continued,

The late Mr. Haden Clark, with brief notes alleged to have been written by Capt. Lancaster and signed "Haden."

HOOVER LOSES A COLLEAGUE

CABINET MEMBER RESIGNS

A WASHINGTON SENSATION

Washington, Aug. 3. Mr. Robert Patterson Lamont, who succeeded President Hoover as Secretary of Commerce on Mr. Hoover's elevation to Chief Executive, has tendered his resignation.

The official announcement regarding the resignation, which has caused a sensation, declares that Mr. Lamont is desirous of re-entering private business, but it is believed that there is much more to it than that and that Mr. Lamont and the President found themselves unable to agree upon an important point of policy.

CLASH OF OPINION.

It is noteworthy that the Secretary of Commerce and President Hoover recently burned midnight oil, together conferring with industrial interests upon the crucial unemployment problem.

It is understood that one of the suggestions for ameliorating the terrible conditions was the initiation of a five-day week.

It is believed that, following the conference, an effort was made to draw up a programme and that an irreparable breach developed.

Mr. Lamont was a prominent business man before responding to President Hoover's appeal to join the Cabinet in March, 1929.

SUCCESSION APPOINTED.

His successor has already been announced. He is Mr. Roy Chapman, chairman of the Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit, with which he has been identified since 1901. He is 52 years of age and this will be his first active participation in politics.—Reuter.

BOLIVIA-PARAGUAY WAR

STRONG INTERNATIONAL PEACE PRESSURE

EUROPE AND AMERICA UNITE

Washington, Aug. 3. Although no formal declaration of war has been made, fighting is still taking place in the Gran Chaco between Bolivian and Paraguayan troops.

The representatives of nineteen American nations are to-night signing a statement for immediate despatch, calling on both countries to cease hostilities.

It was announced at the British Foreign Office in London this evening that the Acting Secretary-General of the League of Nations has suggested that His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom, and the French, German, Italian and Spanish Governments should support through diplomatic channels, the appeal issued on August 1 by the President of the League Council to the Governments of Bolivia and Paraguay.

The threatened war between Bolivia and Paraguay emanates from fifty years of dissension over the ownership of a hundred thousand square miles of territory in the Gran Chaco region.

SINCE 1563.

The frontiers in this district have never accurately been demarcated since the splitting up of the Spanish Empire in 1563.

Each party to the dispute advanced ancient Spanish charters and Imperial decrees in support of their claims and there has been perennial friction due to the fact that both countries occupy parts of the disputed territory and have established forts therein.

In the last week, these forts have been the scene of several engagements.

The Note signed by nineteen American nations in Washington to-day, requests the immediate cessation of hostilities, declaring that no official recognition will be given to any conquest of territory by either nation as the result of a war.—Reuter and British Wireless.

CANADIAN TIMBER FOR BRITAIN

BIG PREFERENCE PROPOSED

(Telegraph Special).

Harbin, Aug. 4.

A piquant situation has developed in the postal dispute in Harbin, as a result of the refusal of Mr. F. L. Smith, the Postal Commissioner appointed from Nanking, to hand over the keys of the Post Office and the safes.

His attitude has had the effect of preventing the Manchukuo authorities from gaining complete control of the postal service which is operating very inefficiently.

Mr. Smith declines to give up the keys until the Manchukuo authorities give passports and visas to all Chinese employees of the Postal Administration who do not wish to remain at work for the Manchukuo and this is being refused.

Although the newly appointed Manchukuo Commissioner, Hsia Shao-kan is opposed to the intimidation of the Chinese postal employees, several have been arrested with the result that the remainder have gone into hiding.—Reuter.

The principal proposal appears to be an increase in the British preference on Canadian timber to as much as 25 per cent., in order to meet the higher costs of production in Canada.—Reuter.

London, Aug. 3.

At Ottawa to-day the principal event was a meeting of the United Kingdom and Australian delegations to examine definite proposals affecting each country.

Similar meetings between the other Dominions are to be held during the next few days, and from them it is anticipated, definite conclusions will emerge.—British Wireless.

SILVER SLIGHTLY DECLINES

THE LOCAL MARKET QUIET

The local exchange market continues largely lifeless, very little business passing. The dollar is again unchanged to-day.

Silver in London is down 1/16th spot and forward. China and India bought and sold on a quiet market. After the official fixing, there was no special feature, America holding off.

In New York, silver is down 1/8th, with the market dull.

AN OPEN ADMISSION

EXCITING DEBATE IN SENATE

U.S. PRESSURE BOAST

Dublin, Aug. 4.

The policy of the Fianna Fail Government is the establishment of an Irish Republic, including Northern Ireland.

Irish influence in American political quarters is great enough to prevent even consideration of a scaling down of war debts unless de Valera gets his way.

These somewhat startlingly bald statements were made by a member of the de Valera Cabinet during a dramatic intervention in an exciting debate in the Senate to-day, when a motion was adopted requesting the Government to re-open negotiations regarding the land annuities immediately.

FARMERS' DEMAND.

The demand was moved by the farmers' leader, Senator Counihan, who urged the de Valera Government to settle the matter at once and "leave us within the British Commonwealth, which is the only hope of Ireland's salvation."

Mr. Counihan deplored that the dispute was really a manoeuvre by Mr. de Valera to get the Free State out of the Commonwealth and provide an excuse for the establishment of some kind of a republic.

At this point, Mr. Connolly, the Postmaster-General, intervened and asserted plainly that the Government's policy was an Irish Republic, including the six Northern counties.

That, he declared, would remain Mr. de Valera's policy until it was achieved.

"I can tell Ramsay MacDonald," he added, "that he has no hope of getting his war debts to America even considered as long as this question remains open."

The debate continued in the same spirited tone and its termination was the passing of the resolution referred to.

Meanwhile, Mr. de Valera's tariff war against Britain is not meeting with the success he anticipated. His effort to dam the stream of British coal to the Free State has completely failed up to the moment and he is resorting to new threats.

Many merchants are continuing to buy very large quantities of British coal despite the additional burden of five shillings a ton in duty, owing to its superior quality as compared with Continental coal.

Mr. de Valera has thought fit to warn them that if they do not transfer their orders to the Continent, he will put a prohibitory tariff on British coal.—Reuter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney.

Following is one of the finest hands seen in tournament play. It hardly looks possible that South, the dealer, can make four hearts against any defence. With a diamond opening it looks quite natural that he should lose three diamonds, and as West has five hearts, he should lose a heart trick, but one pair found the correct play which is given below:

▲10-5	▼10-6-3	◆10-6-5-2	♦A-Q-7-4
▲9-4-3	▼8-7-5	◆4-2	♦A-K-Q
▲J-7-3	▼8-3	◆10-9-6-5-2	♦K-J
WEST	MAT	Dealer	SOUTH
NORTH

The Bidding.

A great many players with South's holding would start with a forcing two bid, but the writer prefers to start with one heart knowing that partner, with as little as two queens, will at least bid one No Trump, while if he holds one and one-half tricks and a biddable suit it will be shown. With South bidding one heart West would pass, North would bid two clubs and now South might just as well jump into four hearts.

The Play.

West opened his doubleton club suit with the eight spot. South, the declarer, won the trick with jack and returned the king, playing small from dummy. The ace of hearts was then played and when East passed the nine the declarer was immediately warned that West probably held five hearts. The declarer then led the ace, king and queen of spades, discarding a small diamond from dummy on the third spade. The deuce of spades was then led by declarer, and when West played the three of diamonds, the declarer trumped with the six of hearts in dummy. The declarer can now cash his three good hearts and lose the last three diamond tricks.

The most interesting play comes with the diamond opening, West opening the jack of diamonds and East winning with the queen and immediately cashing his ace and king of diamonds. His best return now would be a heart which the declarer would win with the ace. Declarer would then cash his king and jack of clubs, playing two small from dummy. Now the ace, king and queen of spades are led, discarding a diamond from dummy on the third spade.

Now for the unusually interesting play—the declarer leads the deuce of spades which West is forced to trump, trumping with the seven spot. Declarer over-trumps with the ten in dummy and then leads the six of hearts, winning the last three tricks with the king, queen and jack of hearts.

Notice that West, who held five trump, while the declarer held only four, did not make a trump trick.

TIN YAT TO BLAME

SEQUEL TO "EDITH" SINKING

INQUIRY ENDS

After a sitting which lasted the whole day and well into the evening, the Court of Inquiry, held yesterday to investigate the collision between the Tin Yat and the steam tug Edith on July 25, brought in a verdict against Captain W. Perritt, master of the Tin Yat, and administered a severe reprimand.

When the Court resumed in the afternoon, Captain J. Pederson, master of the Hirundo, was the first witness called.

He said the Edith was carrying two masthead lights and side lights. He saw a steamer coming from Hongkong and as she approached nearer, it seemed to him that she was crossing ahead of the Henry Keswick. A little later she appeared to change her course to port as if to pass between the Henry Keswick and the Hirundo. After that she changed her course to port again as if to pass the stern of the Henry Keswick. Then she came back to starboard heading right into them, and struck the Edith, tearing her off her moorings. He could not say at what speed the Tin Yat was travelling, but she appeared to slow down as she came towards the Edith. He gave orders for a boat to be lowered and two life belts thrown, after which the Henry Keswick towed the Hirundo into Stonecutters.

In reply to Comdr. Hole, witness stated that the Henry Keswick was carrying three masthead lights and three side lights.

Replying to Mr. Wadeson, witness said that the tug and the Hirundo could not have done anything to prevent the collision, but the Tin Yat could have by stopping, backing and passing astern.

In answer to Lt. Comdr. Addington, witness said that their course was altered when they were rounding Green Island.

Mr. F. Webster, mate of the Henry Keswick, also deposed to the fact that the Henry Keswick was carrying three white lights at the mast, two side lights and one white light, right in front.

Master's Story.

Captain W. Perritt, master of the Tin Yat, said on July 25 he left the Ping On Wharf at 9.55 p.m. for Canton. He put the engines full speed astern and backed into the Southern Fairway. He then put the engines full speed ahead to square her up, and later put them half speed and proceeded through the Southern Fairway towards No. 7 buoy. While approaching the No. 7 buoy, the chief officer was on the bridge on the starboard side keeping a lookout for the buoy. Witness saw several steamers coming from Capsuiman Pass. He also saw two vertical white lights and a green light overhead nearly ahead little to the starboard. He rounded the buoy on his starboard side and set his course for Capsuiman light. This brought the two vertical lights and green light to his port. He tried to see what she was towing, but could not see anything.

As he rounded the buoy he ran full speed ahead—about 11 knots. He kept a lookout for the tow, and also for oncoming steamers. He then saw the tug after her course to starboard, but he could not see what she was towing. The tug passed from port to starboard ahead of him, which led him to believe that the master of the tug had convinced himself that he could do so with safety to himself and to his tow. Witness concluded that the vessel which was being towed was lashed alongside the portside of the tug.

Full Speed Astern.

Being passed clear, witness concentrated on the other on-coming steamers. Suddenly on glancing to port, he saw the green light close to him. He knew that a collision was inevitable, so he gave his engines a double ring astern, and ordered the helm hard to port, and at the same time, gave three blasts on the steam whistle. He did these movements in order to draw the ship's head to starboard to minimise the blow. After about half a minute, the Edith, which he had noticed after he had run astern, hit the Tin Yat on the port bow. By this time his engines had begun to take effect, and they drifted clear of the Edith. He gave orders for the starboard boat to be lowered, and also sent his carpenter down to find if any damage had been done to the Tin Yat. The carpenter later reported that she was making water, and so he dropped anchor. Ten men were picked up and brought on the Tin Yat.

Did Not See Lights.

In reply to Mr. Bryton, witness said that no answering whistle was given after he had sounded the three blasts. Never at any time did he see three vertical white lights. He did not see any lights on the Edith.

In answer to Mr. Wadeson, witness said that the towing vessel's light was first noticed when she was over a mile away, and he had more or less kept it under observation along with other lights.

Mr. Wadeson—Why did you assume that the master of the tow thought that they were clear of you?

Captain Perritt—I altered my course N W 1/2 W, bringing the tow light on my port and she absolutely passed clear.

Mr. Wadeson—But still there was a collision.

Captain Perritt—The vessel I saw passed ahead of me from port to starboard showing a green light.

Mr. Wadeson—You also said that the tow was alongside on the port side. Why did you assume that?

Captain Perritt—Because I did not think that any sane man, with a tow between him would deliberately run his tow into danger.

The evidence of Mr. L. Jenkins, chief officer of the Tin Yat, was then taken, and this was followed by evidence of the captains of two other ships which were in the vicinity, after which the Court rose.

The Finding.

The Court returned the following finding:

We find that the s.s. Tin Yat, Official No. 154033 of Hongkong (Continued on Page 11.)

Herr Hitler, in car at left, taking the salute of Bavarian Nazis in Munich. This was the first uniformed parade in the Bavarian capital since 1930.

A demonstration took place in Bucharest recently right under the windows of the Palace, brisk fighting occurring beneath the balcony. The scene was alleged to have been instigated by Marshal Averescu, a bitter enemy of the King. It is also suggested that King Carol had been dared to show himself. He appeared on the balcony (as shown above) when the riot was at its height, and all stilled dramatically.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE by Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Cherry, a pretty, 19, tells her mother she is going to have a meeting with her mother, Mrs. Phillips, reported in the Washington News. Cherry has few friends because her wealthy parents consider most of the other young people of the town socially inferior. She has been communicating with Phillips without her parents' knowledge. She and Dan lunch together and are about to start for a drive in Cherry's roadster when another girl, tells Dan that Mike Smith, a bank robber, has escaped jail and the city editor wants Dan to find him. Cherry, Smith's sweetheart, and get an interview with her father. He agrees. He promises to return in 10 minutes. When he does not come, Cherry grows nervous and goes into the apartment to find him. She becomes frightened, runs on the stairs and a shot at her. Dan, Cherry falls and suffers consequences to find herself in a strange room. Dan has bandaged her arm temporarily. He takes her to a doctor's office.

CHAPTER IV

"What is it, Dan?" Cherry demanded. "What's happened?"

"Oh, nothing much," Bates says. "The Sentinel's found Inez Mallory. Already have an extra out."

"Then what are you to do?"

Phillips' smile was not mirthful. "The Boss gave me some instructions," he said, "but, lady, I wouldn't soil your pretty pink ears by repeating 'em! I'm not very popular right now with Hiram J. Bates. Well, shall we push along?"

He extracted a wallet from his pocket and handed Dr. Ryland a bill. A moment later Cherry and Phillips were out on the street. The sunshine had disappeared and the wind was sharper. The girl drew her coat about her closely when she was seated in the roadster.

Once more Phillips took the wheel. The engine purred faultlessly. Neither of them thought of the beige purse Cherry had dropped in the Taylor avenue apartment.

"Must be getting late," Phillips said. He stole a quick glance at his wrist watch and reported, "Ten after four."

A little gasp came from the girl. "Ten after four," she repeated. "Why, I didn't dream."

Phillips glanced at her. "Guess they'll be wondering at your home what's happened to you."

"Oh, no," she assured him in a faint voice. "They'll—they'll know I'm all right."

"Yes?" The young man's voice was taunting. "All right, are you? With a bullet hole in one arm and about a mile of bandage wrapped around it. Oh, yes, you're 'all right'! Honestly, Cherry, I'll never forgive myself for getting you into this!"

"But you didn't! It was my fault, Dan, every bit of it."

"Oh, no, it wasn't. How I could be so senseless as to take you into a place like that! Ought to have my head examined."

"Don't talk that way, Dan! I know I'm to blame. You told me to stay in the car and I didn't do it. You said to wait for you but it seemed such a long time and I was afraid something had happened! That's why I went inside. Then I didn't know where you were or how to find you and I ran up some stairs. That's about all I remember. Oh, it was foolish of me! I should have waited as you said. It was my fault. I was hurt and it's my fault you didn't get your story on time—before the Sentinel got it. That's why that man—Bates—was angry, isn't it? I know it's all my fault!"

The dark eyes, raised to Phillips, were pleadingly earnest.

"Now wait a minute! No use going on that way. Who practically kidnapped you, car and all, and told you to drive to that God-forsaken place? Yes, ma'am, little Daniel! If it hadn't been for my crack-brained idiocy where would you have spent the afternoon? Taking a pleasant spin in the sunshine out on Stewart road. No—you can't get away from it, Cherry. I'm to blame for everything that happened. I wish to God there was something I could do to make up to you—"

She laid her hand on his arm. "There isn't anything," Cherry said, "to be made up except my spoiling your interview. Is it going to be—anything serious? I mean will it make trouble?"

"I scoffed at the suggestion. "Bates blows up and get over it in a second," he assured her. "I've heard him do it a million times! Probably he's forgotten the whole thing now."

Dan was convincing; more so than he would have been to persons acquainted with Hiram J. Bates and his manner toward employees.

They had driven steadily westward and were turning into Twelfth street. The going was slower now. The huge clock before Matthews' Jewellery store gave the time as 4:30. Cherry wondered for the hundredth time what she was to say when she reached home. The bandage on her arm—the right arm. Her mother would be difficult to deal with—but—her father! Cherry closed her eyes, trying to shut out the thought.

Now they had reached the bridge, were crossing it.

"Dan," the girl asked suddenly, "where are you going?" "Going to take you home." "But you can't do that, Dan! Oh, you can't!"

"Why not?"

She tried in confusion to explain. How could she say that appearing in the company of a strange young man would be as grave a sin in the eyes of her parents as to come home with the injured arm and ruined costume? How could she tell him of the inflexible Dixon pride? Cherry made feeble efforts to find words until Dan stopped her.

"Now, listen," he said firmly, "I got you into this thing and I'm going to get you out. Think I'd let you go home alone? What kind of an insect do you take me for? I'm going to tell your family exactly what happened!"

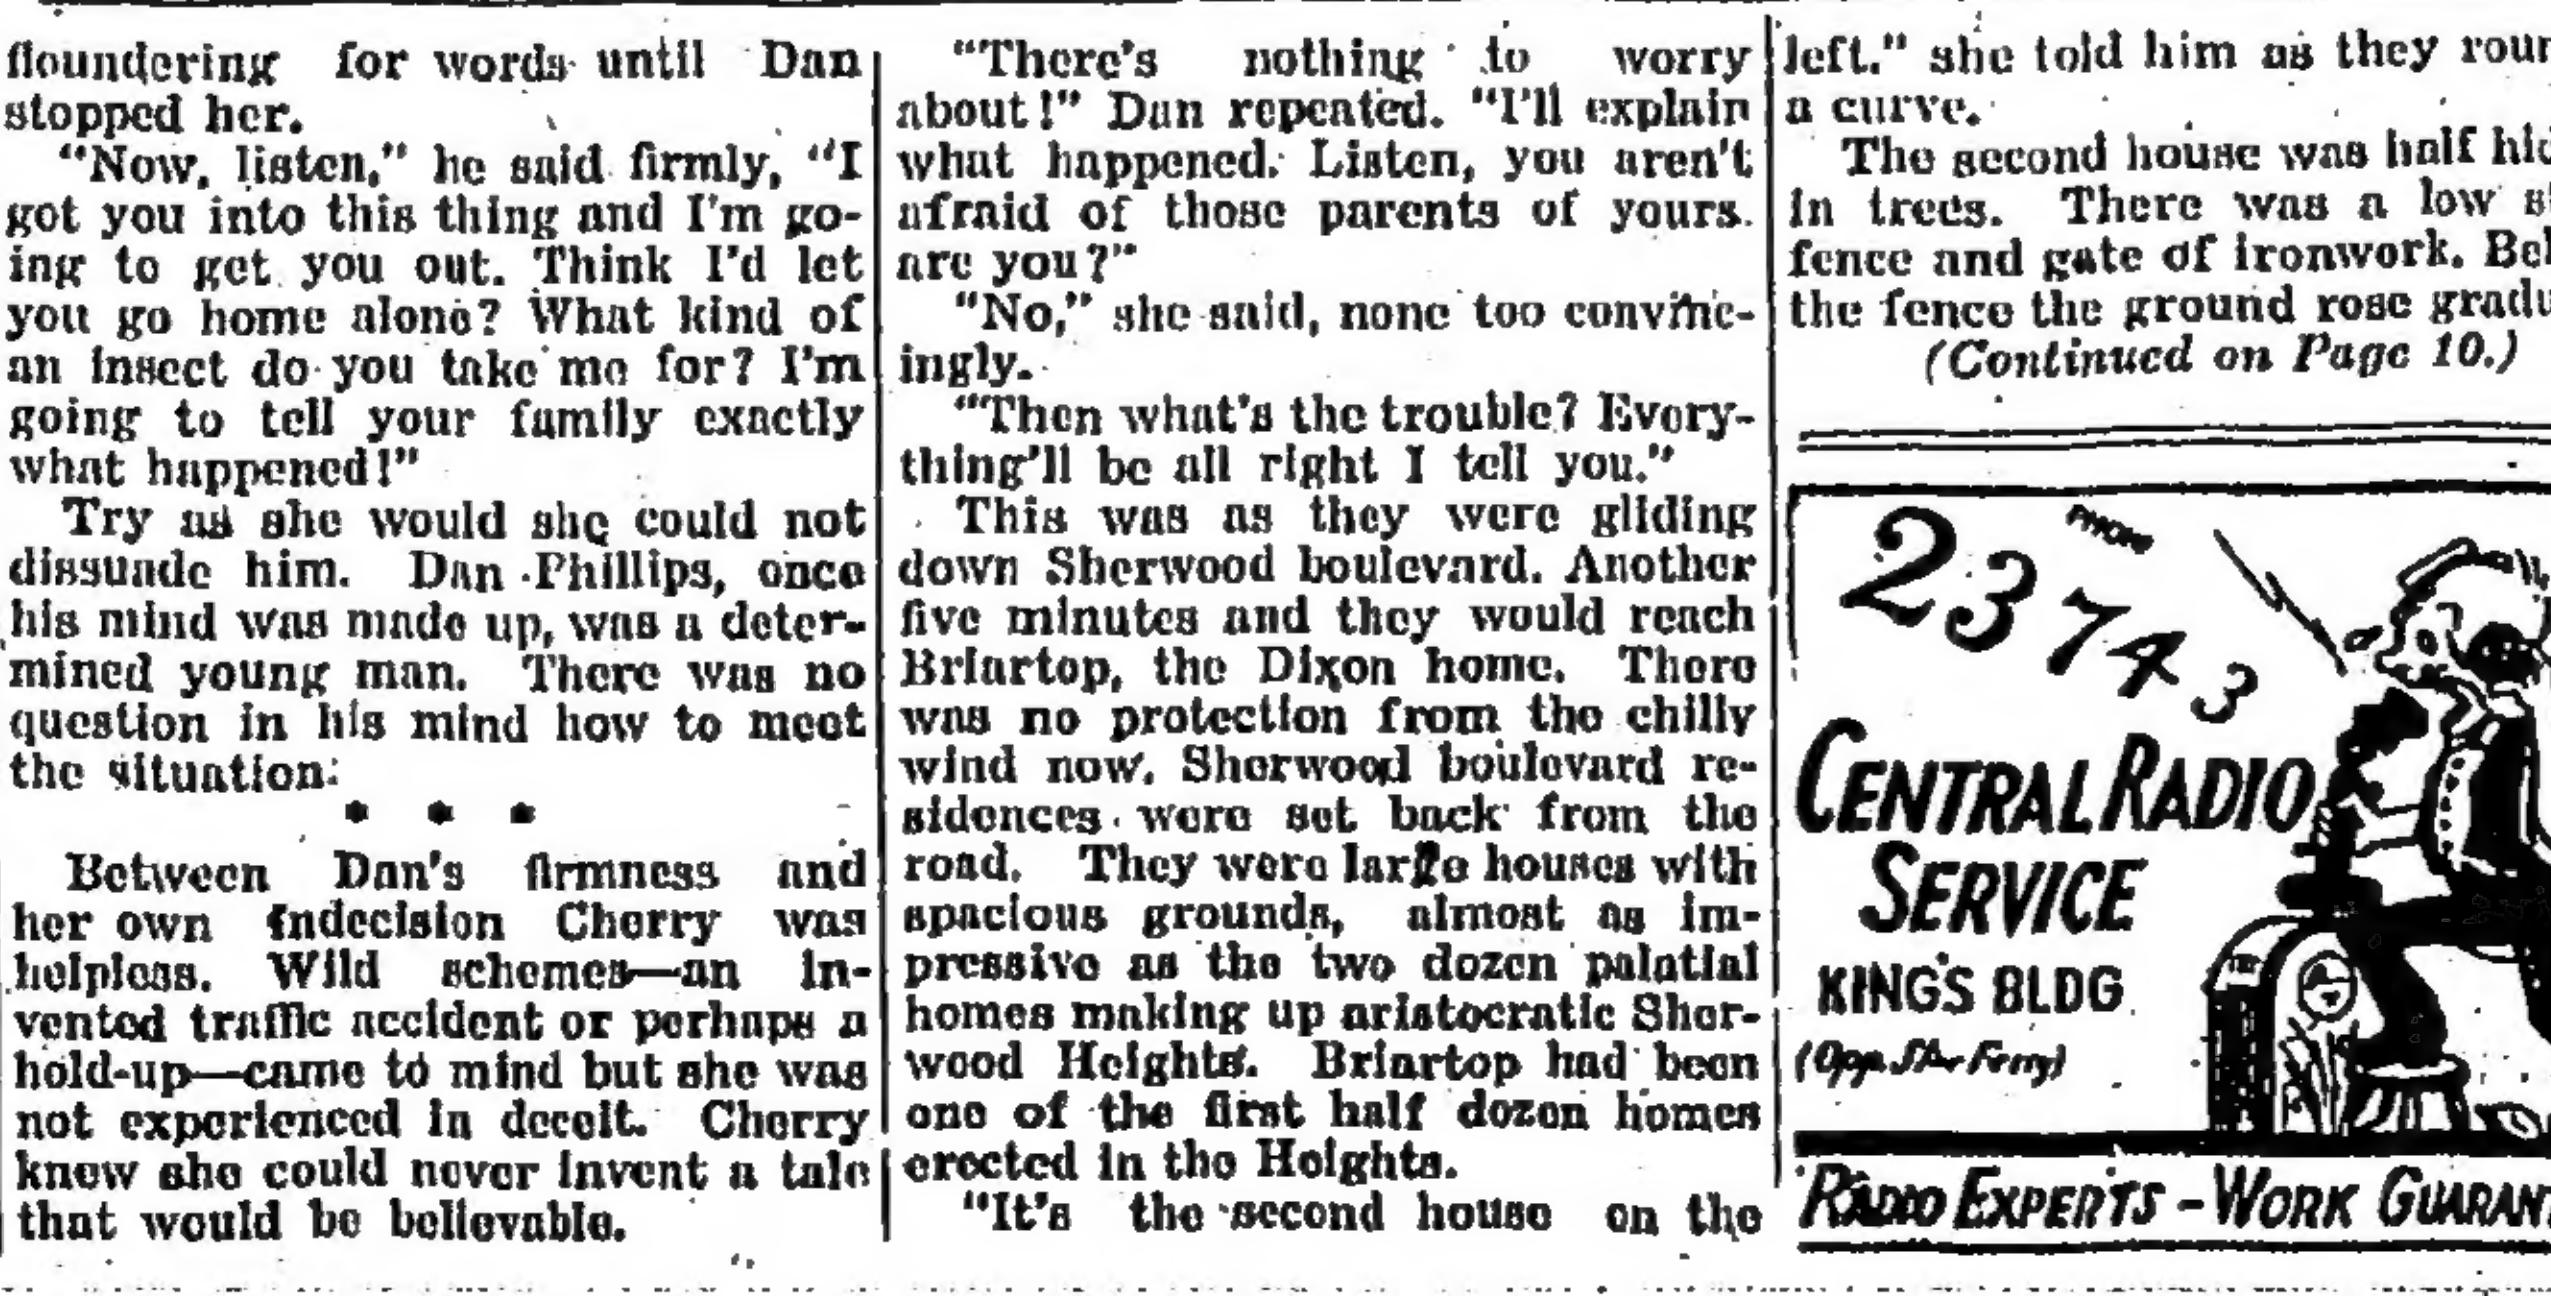

Try as she would she could not dissuade him. Dan Phillips, once his mind was made up, was a determined young man. There was no question in his mind how to meet the situation.

Between Dan's firmness and her own indecision Cherry was helpless. Wild schemes—an inverted traffic accident or perhaps a hold-up—came to mind but she was not experienced in deceit. Cherry knew she could never invent a tale that would be believable.

"It's the second house on the FASHION NOTES.

Silhouettes for Evening.

The new silhouettes for evening wear as seen in Paris are very varied, and many are the materials used, including satins, lace, sometimes combined with chiffon, a triple georgette, and some printed chiffon.

The line given to some of the new evening dresses is very beautiful. They cling closely to the figure. What fullness there is in the skirt, beginning at about knee-height; in cases of the fullness being concentrated in the back, they may end in a short train.

The draped neckline, square and oval decolletés, and a new one, which falls right off the shoulders, are being shown.

Mention must be made, too, concerning the divided skirts, which in appearance, are like ordinary skirts, the division being concealed by an inverted pleat—back and front.

The fashion for small capes in evening dresses is steadily increasing; they may be elbow-length, or shorter, sometimes little more than large collars which over-lap the shoulders. Again, there are often two wings, one on each arm.

Long Evening Coats.

Charming fur-trimmed evening jackets are seen in all colours and in all fabrics, from satin and velvet to georgette and a ciré peau-d'ange. There are no very short coats this year. Very long satin coats, reaching almost to the ankles, are worn over the more delicate dresses.

Long Evening Coats.

Trimly tailored white wool mesh fashions this smartly simple bathing suit. The outfit is distinguished by a conservative sun back, and a plain black belt and a silver fleur-de-lis buckle.

Jaffa Buns.

Cream three ounces of butter, add 4 lb. of flour, one teaspoonful of baking-powder, two ounces of castor sugar and two well-beaten eggs. Stir in ten drops of essence of vanilla. Divide into pieces the size of a walnut, and bake ten minutes in a quick oven.

Crumble Scones.

Half-pound flour, 2 oz. moist sugar, 3 oz. butter, 2-teaspoonful baking powder, new milk to mix flour. Put flour, sugar and butter into a bowl. With the fingers crumble down the butter among the flour until it is like breadcrumbs.

Add the baking-powder, mixing well. Then stir in as much new milk as will make a stiff paste. Turn out on a floured board. Work little, and roll into a thin round. Cut across into eight. Flour each scone well, and lift on to a hot girdle. These scones are nice and short.

Coconut Kisses.

Half a pound of coconut, six ounces castor sugar, whites of three eggs. Whisk the whites of eggs to a stiff froth, stir in the sugar and coconut. Divide the mixture into half colour, one half pink or cochineal. Line a flat tin with well-buttered paper.

Place the mixture in small pyramids upon it with a fork. Bake for 25 minutes in a moderate oven until they are tinted like a biscuit.

Snowball Cakes.

Cream together a quarter each of butter and sugar, and add the beaten yolk of two eggs and the white of one; sift six ounces of ground rice into the same quantity of flour, with one teaspoon baking powder and mix the whole into a mixture; form lightly into balls about the size of an egg, dab a hole in the middle of each and fill it with raspberry jam, closing the dough up again.

Roll the balls in the beaten white of the second egg, then in sugar, and bake in a hot oven about ten minutes.

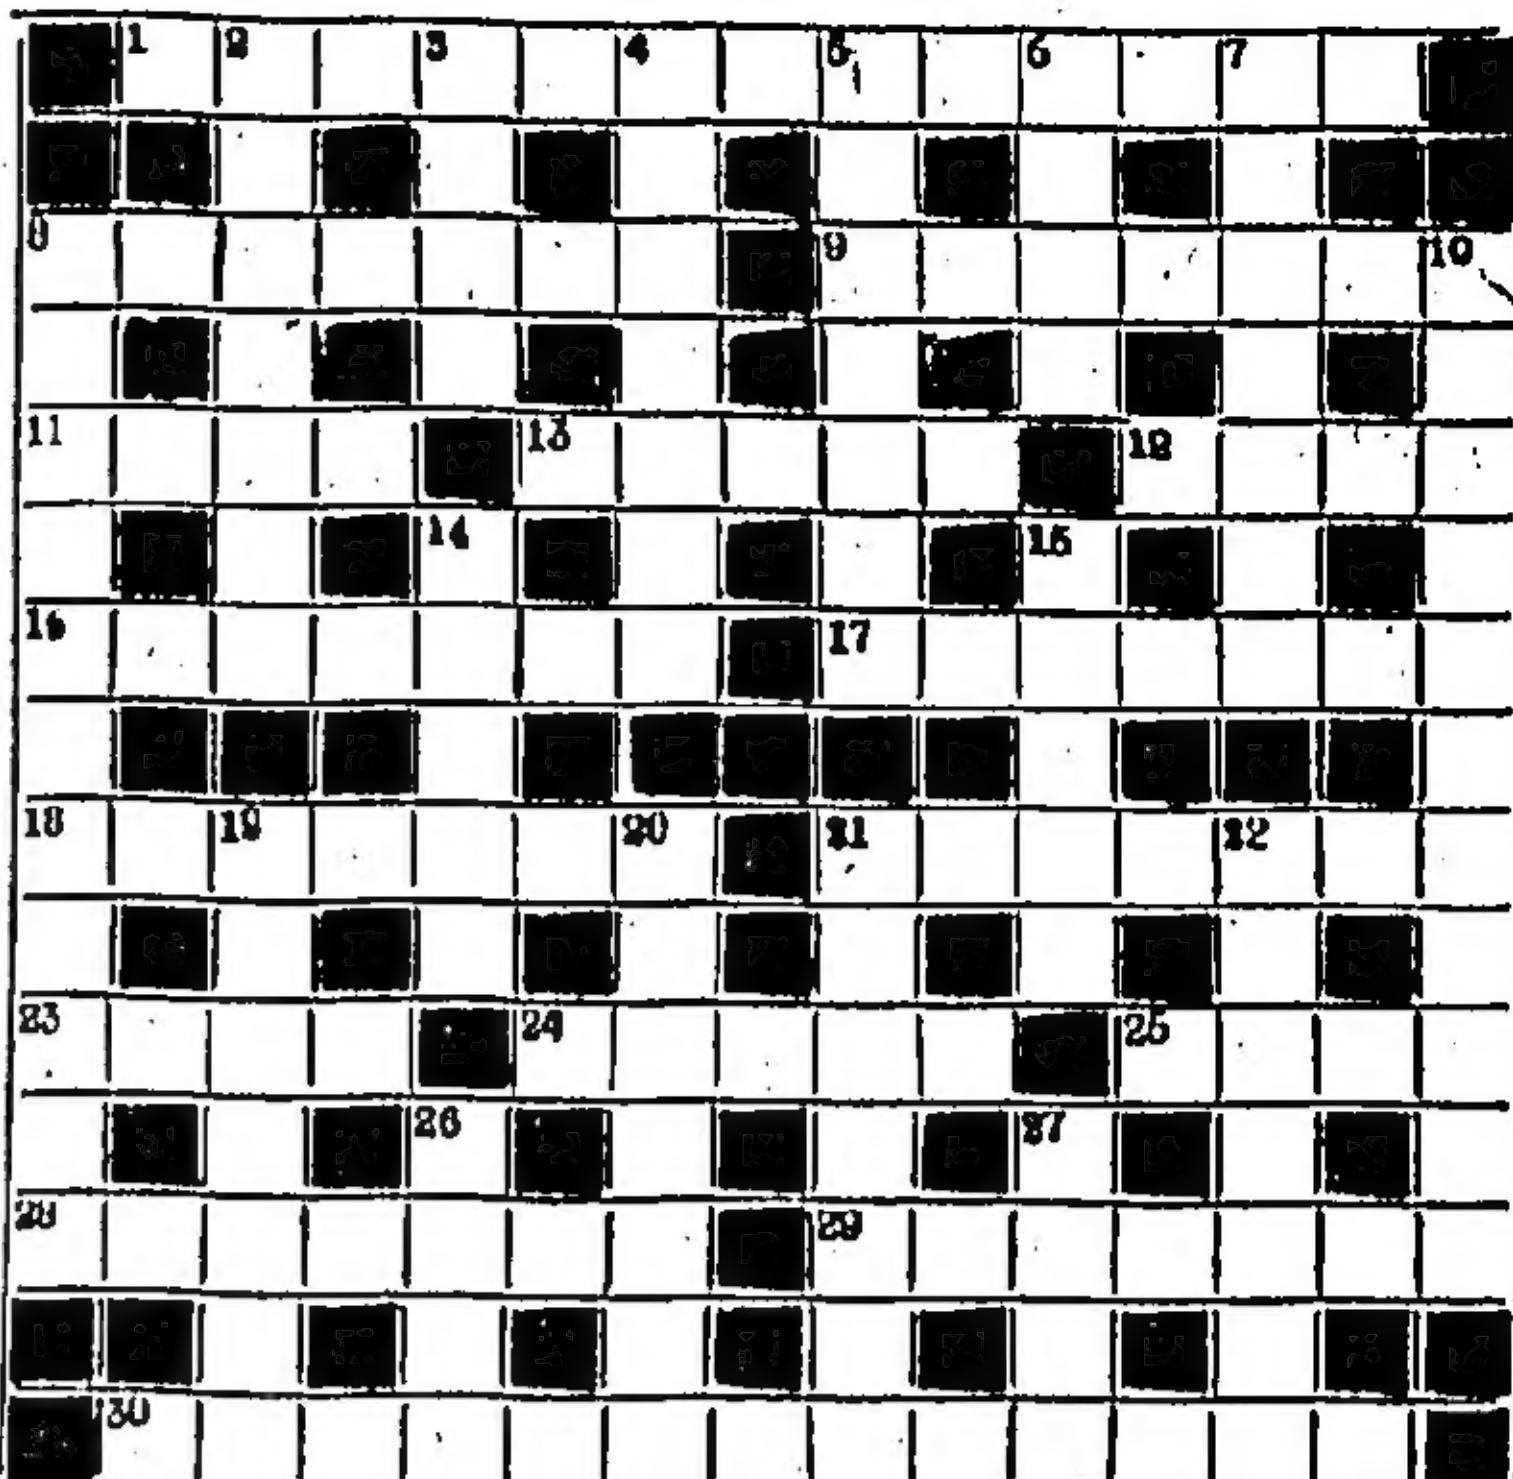

Walnut Creams.

Ingredients: 1 white of egg, 1 table-spoonful cold water. About 1 lb. icing sugar, Vanilla, Walnuts.

Put the white of the egg, water and a few drops of vanilla into a basin and beat well. Add the sugar by degrees until the mixture is stiff enough to knead. Shape into globes, flatten and set halves of walnuts on each side.

MORE FIGHTING

RAIDS ON NEWCHWANG AND HAICHUN

Peiping, Aug. 3.

The Japanese Legation has received telegrams from Mukden of fighting between irregulars and the garrison at Newchwang. The irregulars number a thousand and the defenders 250.

The attack was launched at 4 a.m. yesterday and renewed last night. During the day there was intermittent fighting.

Manchukuo planes twice bombed a position occupied by the irregulars near the suburbs. When the last messages left at 3 a.m. today, fighting was still going on.

A similar attack was made at Haichun, but the result is also not yet known.—Reuter's Special Service.

HEALTH MATTERS

For once in a while, the Unofficials held undisputed possession of the stage at Tuesday's meeting of the Sanitary Board. There were no angry words, no bitter sarcasm. The Officials merely sat and listened to dissertations on the best means of administering health and sanitary matters, and, when the time for voting arrived, gave no indication of their views one way or the other. The result was that there were no frayed tempers, and doubtless the Unofficials left the meeting in a frame of mind not unlike that of Hyde Park orators when they have done their talking and wend their way home, well satisfied with the opportunity they have had of letting off steam. Even the Chairman of the Board threw out a bouquet to the Unofficials for their suggestions, remarking that these would be of great assistance to the Government.

When we come to look into the speeches, however, there is not a great deal on which to hang comment. This is mainly due to the fact that the speakers were dealing with certain reform proposals which have been, so far as the public is concerned, very sketchily presented. None the less, we can quite appreciate and sympathise with the suggestion put forward that there is no need to create a Public Advisory Health Board which is to function separately and independently of the Sanitary Board, as suggested by Dr. Wellington in his recommendations. The difference between the two Boards, as far as we can see, is that the Sanitary Board would be concerned with strictly sanitary questions, while the suggested Public Health Advisory Board, constituted on somewhat similar lines to the Sanitary Board, would advise the Government on general matters of public health policy. Frankly, we see no need for the duplication of Boards in this way. If there is to be any change at all, the view put forward by the Unofficials on Tuesday, that the Sanitary Board be enlarged and its functions expanded, seems much more sensible. There is, however, one point on which we cannot understand the attitude of the Unofficials. We refer to their desire to have non-technical men both as Chairman and Vice-Chairman of the suggested larger Board—the Colonial Secretary in the former post and the Secretary for Chinese Affairs in the latter. Why there should be this rooted objection against experts handling expert work, we are at a loss to know. It almost appears as if the desire to have a buffer interposed between the public and the professional hygienist is shared by more than the "certain Chinese" referred to by Dr. Wellington in urging that a Cadet continue to be Head of the Sanitary Department. Mr. M. K. Lo may not regard this "buffer" idea as being in any way related to the old question of "Chinese susceptibilities," but it is, none the less. Our only surprise is that all the Unofficials should appear to support it. There is surely no sphere of governmental activity in which skilled direction is more needed than in matters pertaining to public health. We have no patience with this talk of the technical man's specialised knowledge rendering him blind to the reality of everyday problems. It is this very knowledge which is needed to overcome ignorance and shortsightedness. And for this reason, every branch of medical and sanitary administration should have an expert at its head.

There is one other point on which we will briefly touch, namely, the demand put forward that in the interests of the general public, all questions of policy and expenditure of public money should be vested in the proposed Public Health Board. This is, we imagine, quite unlikely to meet with acceptance on the part of the Government. Whether we are to have one Board or two, it is certain that the powers of one or both will be purely advisory, just as those of the Sanitary Board are at present. The Board or Boards would be quite within their rights in offering advice on matters of policy and even on the allocation of money votes. But this would naturally be the limit of their powers. The final decision on expenditure is taken in the Legislative Council and always will be, we imagine, while the Crown Colony form of government remains what it is. For the Sanitary or any other advisory Board to ask for rights of financial control, involving possibly the upsetting of the Budget, is equivalent to shouting for the moon.

President Hoover

A man of wide political acquaintance, though himself by no means a politician, talking after a prolonged interview with President Hoover recently disclosed that the President was not entirely without irritation over the existing state of public opinion in the country. He seems to feel particularly disturbed because of the limitations placed upon him by what the politicians regarded as wise policies. And after relating some of the things which he had been recently advised against undertaking, he broke out in somewhat defiant mood with a statement somewhat to this effect: "I have a good mind to go ahead and do exactly as I choose for the remainder of my term without considering either political expediency or the advice of politicians." The gentleman to whom the remark was addressed made the comment that that was precisely the action which would ensure re-election of the President. It seems very curious that so few national leaders in America have recognised the fact that if political history teaches anything, it teaches that the President who plays a lone hand, or at least appears to do so, reaps his reward in his approval of the public as a whole. He may antagonise Congress. He may find it difficult to get measures enacted into law, but almost invariably in any contest of this sort the voting public has stood behind of the President who asserted his own independence and power. Cleveland did it; Roosevelt did it; Wilson to a less degree, though the fact that he had a thoroughly harmonious Congress for the first six years of

DAY BY DAY

ALWAYS REMEMBER THAT A CHILD'S BRAIN IS LIKE A BOTTLE WITH A THIN NECK, AND DON'T ATTEMPT TO POUR TOO MUCH INTO IT AT ONCE.—An Old Woman's Saying.

To-day is the 18th anniversary of the start of the Great War.

A Singer sewing machine, valued by the owner at $100, was stolen on Tuesday from the verandah of the ground floor of 3, Kimberley Villas, the residence of Mr. Gonzales Diaz, who has reported his loss to the Police.

A woman servant employed at No. 5, May Road, was taken to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday after having taken poison, apparently with the view to committing suicide. Her condition is not indicated as serious.

Damage to the extent of $100 is claimed by the mistress of a cargo boat as having been caused in a collision yesterday, when a Union Waterboat craft ran into the boat as it was tied up alongside the Empress of Russia at a Kowloon Godown wharf. No one was injured.

Dr. Y. H. Tsao, General Secretary of the Chinese Y. M. C. A. in Hongkong, has recently returned from the United States after having obtained his degree of Doctor of Education in the University of California. Dr. Tsao did special research work on the subject of extension and adult education.

A drowning fatality is feared as having resulted when three contractors' coolies at Aberdeen went into the old water works dam to bathe yesterday afternoon, and only two of them subsequently re-emerged. No trace was discovered of the third man, Choi Kai, who was an earth carrier, and his death by drowning is presumed.

While crossing a plank with a load of turf from a junk moored at the new Praya East yesterday, a woman coolie was jerked off her balance when the rear sling broke. She was thrown into the water, hitting her head against a flight of steps set against the seawall, later she was removed to hospital.

A fight occurred yesterday between coolies engaged in the removal of cinders and the foiks of a junk moored at Shauhsuiipo into which the cinders were being loaded. It appears that the coolies objected to a boatman removing the cinders, and a fight ensued, in the course of which a junk hand was severely hurt in the head and had to be conveyed to hospital.

"We are trying to make civil aviation 'fly by itself'—that is, learn to fly without need for a subsidy—and the higher the speed becomes the more difficult it is to trench our goal.

"As practical people with practical aims, we are trying to make aviation efficient, safe and quiet. Efficiency we are approaching by two routes—(a) by reduction in resistance to the air, achieved by streamlining and careful construction, and (b) by increasing the efficiency of the engine. We have travelled a long way in both directions, but we are by no means at the end of our journey. Again, something may turn up at any moment which we know nothing about at all, because as speeds rise we get into regions that humanity has never explored.

"Aviation research resembles climbing a mountain; fresh vistas emerge that previously you were ignorant of.

FLYING AS FAST AS SOUND

An Interview with H. E. Wimperis,

Director of Scientific Research at the Air Ministry.

WILL man ever fly as fast as sound? Sound travels at the rate of approximately 740 miles an hour. The highest speed so far attained by Flight-Lieut. G. H. Stainforth in his record-breaking attempt following the Schneider Trophy race last year.

How long yet before flying is safe—and (another factor of enormous importance) silent? What are the problems now being tackled by air scientists? Upon these questions Mr. H. E. Wimperis, Director of Scientific Research at the Air Ministry and Vice-President of the Royal Aeronautical Society, one of the world's foremost brains on aviation, says: "We could attain the speed of sound, or some speed approaching it, if we wanted to do so."

"In our time?" I asked. "Yes. But no one has the money to do it, and I do not know that anybody at present has the inclination either. These contests in speed can be very costly both in life and treasure. We learnt much from the Schneider races, and those engaged on research are grateful for the knowledge, but I do not personally regret that the contest is at an end. I should not include racing among normal research methods."

The Penalties Of Speed. "Flying beyond the velocity of sound at ordinary heights," he went on to say, "is unlikely to be achieved for this reason: Resistance to flight at the velocity of sound takes a great leap upwards; it is almost quadrupled—we know that from studying the flight of bullets. The horse-power necessary to penetrate the resistance barrier would be out of all proportion to the result gained. It may be urged in reply, 'Why not fly at enormously increased heights?' But to do that you would have to put passengers in hermetically sealed chambers, a proceeding they would probably not find at all attractive.

"To be frank, we on the research side are doubtful of the advantage of pushing flying to very much higher speeds than those now attainable—I find it difficult to foresee civil machines flying faster than, say, 300 miles an hour.

"We are trying to make civil aviation 'fly by itself'—that is, learn to fly without need for a subsidy—and the higher the speed becomes the more difficult it is to trench our goal.

"As practical people with practical aims, we are trying to make aviation efficient, safe and quiet. Efficiency we are approaching by two routes—(a) by reduction in resistance to the air, achieved by streamlining and careful construction, and (b) by increasing the efficiency of the engine. We have travelled a long way in both directions, but we are by no means at the end of our journey. Again, something may turn up at any moment which we know nothing about at all, because as speeds rise we get into regions that humanity has never explored.

"Aviation research resembles climbing a mountain; fresh vistas emerge that previously you were ignorant of.

The Spinning Plane. "Safety problems are exceedingly interesting because, in their investigation, you can not only "This ain't a sad picture, is it? I cry awful easy."

He mentioned also the aerial warfare now proceeding between two winged hosts—locusts. Aircraft are being used to aid the anti-locust campaign both in reconnaissance and in disseminating poisonous dust. "I believe," he said, "the Russians have used aircraft more in the locust war than anybody else, but I have no details."

I asked him a final question about the size of aircraft—does our new British flying boat launched at Rochester, of 33 tons weight, which I pointed out had a wing span of 120ft, length of 90ft, nearly 5,000 h.p., represent something like the last word in size? (The German Dornier Do. X has, in fact, a 40ft. wider wing span, and 1,300 more horsepower).

He said, "This British boat represents a big jump forward. As big a jump as it is safe to make at one time. But now that it is made, we shall be ready, if (Continued on Page 9.)

CONVERSION PLAN SUCCESS

HIGHEST HOPES REALISED

London, Aug. 3. The total amount of War loan converted up to the time of cessation of the bonus offer is being awaited with much interest.

The size of the operation, which is the largest ever attempted in Britain or any other country, makes it impossible for the Treasury to publish accurate figures at the moment, and the final totals will probably not be available for some days.

The newspapers express great gratification at the undoubtedly success of the operation, and the figures to date fulfil the highest expectations. They show that out of every hundred holdings in respect of which applications have been received, 93 are for conversion into the new 3½ per cent. stock and only seven for redemption.

Almost without exception, the big holdings in the hands of insurance companies, banks, municipalities and large firms have been converted.—British Wireless.

SEAMAN RESENTS CRITICISM

FERRY PASSENGER ASSAULTED

Angered by the criticism voiced by a lower deck passenger regarding his seamanship, a deck hand on the Yaumati ferry-boat Man-chong caught the passenger with a backhand blow squarely in the left eye. Traces of the injury were plainly noticeable when the man assaulted took his case to Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy this morning.

It was explained that the incident occurred in the stress and strain of bringing the ferry alongside the Hongkong wharf, at a time when low tide made manœuvring difficult and the seaman in question had more than once missed his aim when slinging the hawser.

The seaman admitted that he lost his temper when the passenger ventured to criticise his seamanship.

"You must not do it" warned Mr. Wynne-Jones as he fined the seaman five dollars.

THE RIDER MAIN SUPPLY

FULL SERVICE NOW TURNED ON

It is learned that, as from Tuesday morning, the Government turned on a full supply of water to the unmetered houses in the rider main districts, and with the exception of a few houses in this area where the water had been disconnected owing to the underground pipes having corroded, the rider mains are now giving a direct supply.

This action follows the filling of the reservoirs, owing to the heavy rain. It is interesting to note that the Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall gave notice a few days ago that he intended to put questions regarding the rider mains at the Legislative Council this afternoon, besides moving a resolution that the authorities, in view of the present improved water situation, should restore the direct supply to the rider main districts.

NOTED WRITER'S DEATH

PASSES AWAY AFTER OPERATION

London, Aug. 3. The death has occurred at Guy's Hospital, after an operation, of Professor Goldsworthy Lowes Dickinson, Fellow of King's College, Cambridge, and well-known writer.

The deceased, who was a son of the late Lowes Dickinson, artist, was a most prolific writer. In 1914, he wrote his Essay on the Civilisation of India, China and Japan, this following a world tour which he undertook in 1912-13 on a Kahn Travelling Scholarship.—Reuter.

The false bottom of a box and crevices behind the wooden coverings of electric wires were used by a Chinese, of 22, Po Leung Kuk Street, to secretly illicit opium but Revenue Officer W. Ward, in a raid, discovered the drug which on analysis was found to amount to 25 taels of prepared opium. The man alleged to have been in charge was brought before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning and on entering a plea of guilty to the charge was fined $1,500 or seven months' hard labour.

MINOR MOTOR MISHAP

INDIAN WALKS INTO CAR

A car driven by Mr. R. A. D. Forrest was concerned in a minor accident yesterday morning.

According to a letter to the police reporting the accident, Mr. Forrest was at 9.20 a.m. driving his car in Pedder Street. As he turned west into Connaught Road Central, an Indian who is unknown to Mr. Forrest, stepped off the footpath, in front of his car. Mr. Forrest stopped the car but could not altogether avoid the pedestrian whose foot was caught under the left front wheel. The car was immediately backed, and Mr. Forrest stepped out and enquired of the Indian if he were seriously hurt and if he wished to go to hospital. The Indian said nothing, but walked away, being obviously not seriously hurt.

THE NEW BROADCAST TRANSMITTER.

EXPLANATION FOR THE SEEMING DEFECTS

In view of criticisms which have been expressed regarding the Hongkong Government's new broadcast transmitter, a point which appears to have been overlooked in some quarters is that the transmitter has been erected at Hongkong quite experimentally. The object has been to test the strength of signals in various parts of the Colony and at sea, and also possible interference to the existing Government commercial and naval and military receiving stations.

Unfortunately, after a few days' running, insulation trouble was experienced, and the set had to be closed down for the defective part to be removed, rewound and replaced. This took about fourteen days, after which test transmissions were resumed.

ADJUSTMENT TAKES TIME.

It has to be borne in mind that the adjusting of a modern-type transmitter, when installed to a definite plan, takes a considerable time. Indeed, in the case of one of the London regional stations such work took fully eight months. The problem here in Hongkong, according to Mr. L. H. King, Chief Electrical Engineer, is rendered all the more difficult from the fact that a new transmitter is being brought into service on exactly the same wavelength as the existing one. It will thus be seen that no work can be done in tuning the new transmitter whilst the old one is on the air. Thus only a few hours daily are left for such work. The new transmitter has now been taken off programme work until completely and finally adjusted.

NO REPORTS RECEIVED.

When the new transmitter was first put into use, the public were requested to report to Mr. King as to strength of signals, but, strange to say, no reports have been received from anyone in the Colony. This is regretted, since the information would have been most useful.

With regard to strength of signals at sea, the master of one ship reported full loud-speaker strength 250 miles from Hongkong, when using an Atwater Kent Model 82D receiver, while another reported weak signals, but audible, at 900 miles. This, considering the very low aerial in use (50 feet instead of 180 feet), and also the time of the year, is considered by Mr. King to be satisfactory.

STUDIO "DISTORTION".

Regarding complaints of distortion, due to studio acoustics, considerable trouble has been experienced with the new amplifier gear. The makers are replacing the defective parts, and until they have been installed and brought into use, it will not be possible to make a real test of the studio.

TENNIS LEAGUE.

I. R. C. BEAT CLUB IN "A" DIVISION

that is your safeguard and security

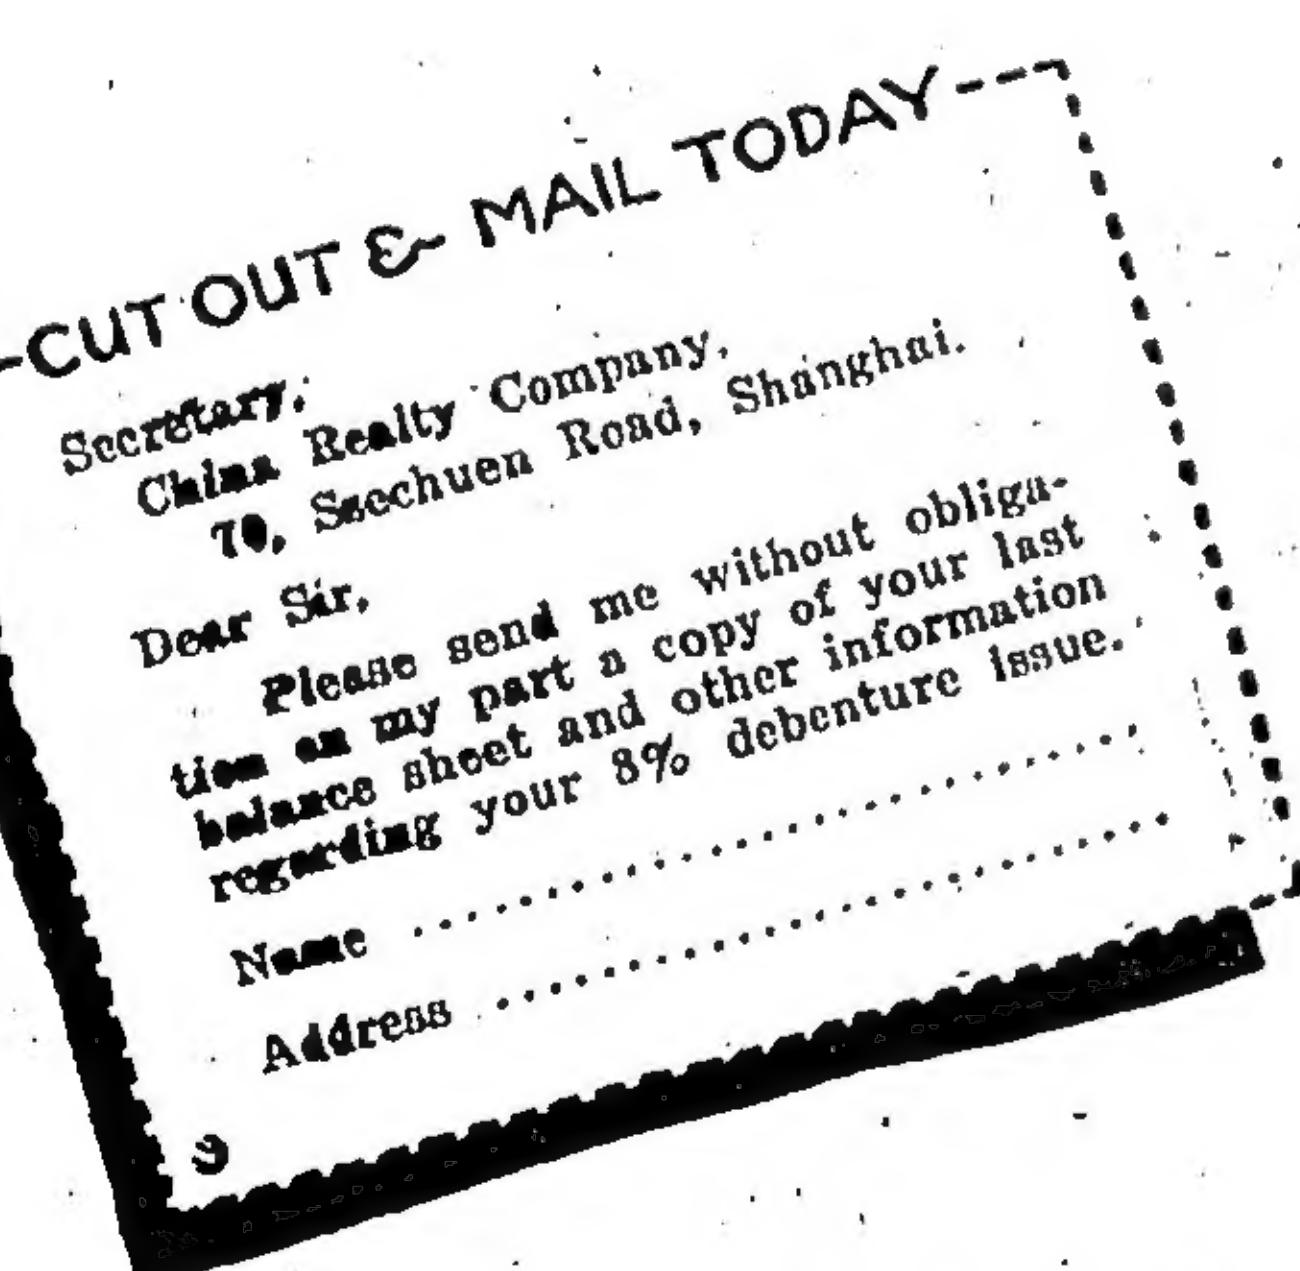

During 1931 we negotiated mortgages amounting to $19,194,868 on property valued at over $35,550,000. It will be thus seen that the amount loaned was less than 54% of the market value of the property, leaving a margin of security wide enough to cover the remotest contingency.

Of this $19,194,868 of mortgages, $11,915,311 were given to investors. The average rate of interest was 9.33% and our commissions amounted to $146,825, or 0.765%. It will be clearly seen by these figures that on the basis that this company operates, it can easily afford to pay 8% interest on the volume of the business of 1931 and yet make a profit of $399,525.00 on the mortgage department alone! These debentures have an additional security of $5,000,000 capital.

Compare these figures with the earnings of any other company, we shall then be pleased to show you how your money in sums of $100 or more can earn 8%—one third more income—FOR YOU.

DURING the past 20 years we have negotiated mortgages amounting to more than ONE HUNDRED MILLION TAELS—without one cent of loss in principal or interest.

SOUTH CHINA UPHELD

Favoured by Legal Opinion in Soccer Dispute

NEW ELECTION TO BE HELD

BOWING to legal advice on the construction of the rules of the Hongkong Football Association in regard to the dispute between the Association and South China Athletic Club over the election of the Council at the last annual meeting, the Council, on the motion of Mr. R. K. Duncan, yesterday agreed to call an extraordinary general meeting of the Association with a view to straightening matters out.

After informing members of the council that the meeting was a special one called at short notice, the chairman said:

"I am sorry if the notice has been a little shorter than is customary, but I feel sure that the importance of the question at issue and our desire to have it settled, will cause you to agree with me that it is essential we proceed as quickly as possible.

"At our last meeting, if you remember, we decided to take legal advice on the question raised by the South China Athletic Association as to who should vote at the annual general meeting. Mr. G. Orms頓 and Mr. H. M. McTavish put the case before Mr. O. E. C. Marton of Deacons, and on Saturday last we received Mr. Marton's opinion which I will read to you later.

"Not being satisfied with Mr. Marton's finding it was arranged to have the opinion of Counsel.

Council's Rights.

The question was put before Mr. H. G. Sheldon, and yesterday evening Mr. Sheldon, Mr. Marton, Mr. McTavish and myself went into this matter very carefully and to-day I have received the written opinion of Mr. Sheldon.

The alteration to Rule 5 last year legally—we are told—has deprived the Council of the right to vote if Council members are not Club representatives and we are informed that precedent does not count.

Rule 23 of the Hongkong Football Association makes it perfectly clear that at a meeting called for alteration to rules, all present at the meeting are entitled to vote, but Counsel's opinion is that Rule 5 is the determining factor in this case.

Rule 24 leads us to the F. A. Rules if the question at issue is not fully covered in our Rules but Counsel submits that the question being fully covered by Rule 5 the application to the F. A. Rules does not arise.

Chairman's Advice.

I wish at this point to say that I am not quite satisfied with opinion of Counsel but I am satisfied that there is a doubt as to who should vote, and that being so, I feel it is our duty to lose no time in calling an extraordinary general meeting to present and consider a resolution to declare the election at the annual general meeting null and void, and if the resolution be passed, to proceed with the election of Council in strict accordance with Rule 5 as interpreted by our legal advisers.

As chairman of the Council as it is at present, I consider it is my duty to the Hongkong Football Association to recommend this course to you—no matter what my personal opinion may be, and I sincerely hope, in the interest of fairplay and that sporting spirit which we consider so essential in the game under our control hereafter you have heard the views of Mr. Sheldon and Mr. Marton, that we will be unanimous in our opinion that what I now suggest is the correct thing to do.

Mr. Duncan then proceeded to read the letters from Mr. Sheldon and Mr. Marton.

Mr. T. G. Stokes enquired whether Mr. Marton had been consulted when the rules were revised last year.

The chairman replied that Mr. Marton had not been consulted until the present dispute. The question of the changing of Rule 5 all fell on him (Mr. Duncan) and it had caused the council a lot of trouble he was prepared to accept all that was coming. The fact was that at the end of the season last year he asked to throw up the rules and he spent a considerable time on the Rules to get them into what he considered a much better sequence than they were before.

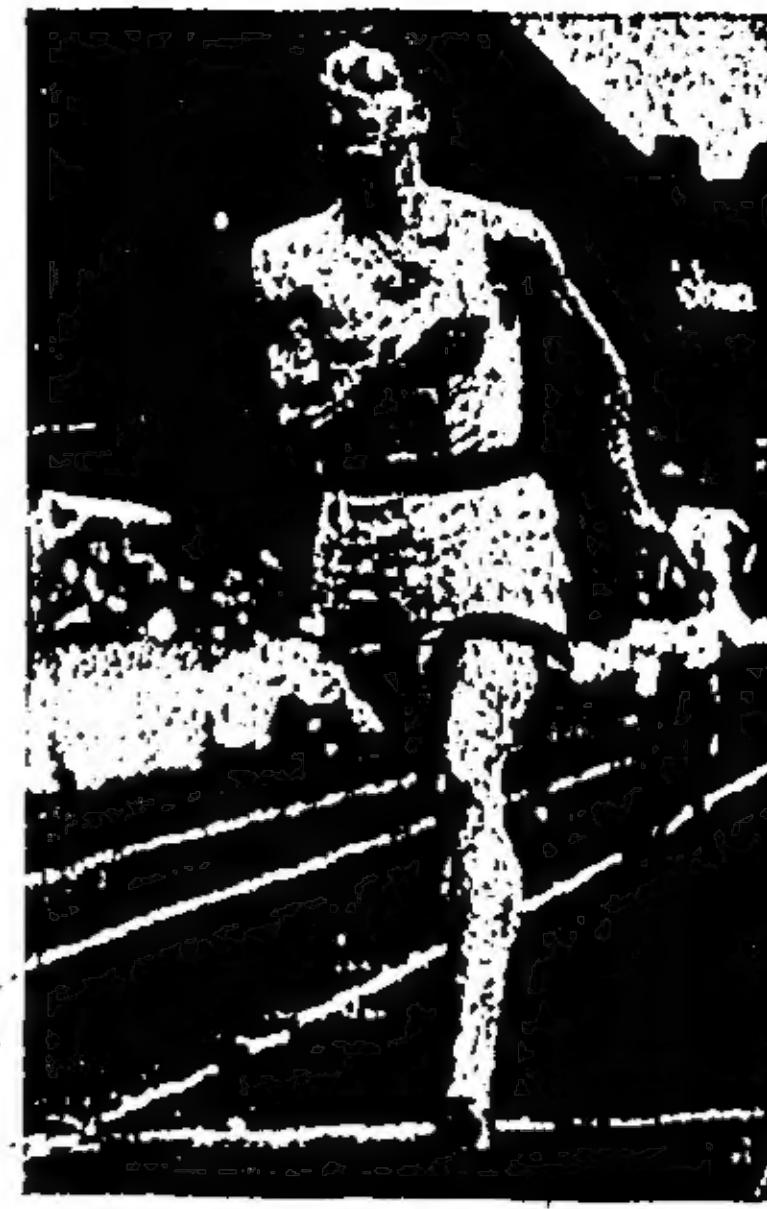

A Phrase Deleted.

He had discovered the omission of the phrase from Rule 5 and since Mr. McTavish had drawn his attention to it he (the chairman) had referred back to his notes which he still had, but he could not find any explanation for the alteration in that particular instance. The only conclusion he could come to was that it was left out because to him, as a layman, it seemed superfluous.

Mr. McTavish remarked that the Rules had been circulated to all clubs and as representatives did not discover the mistake, Mr. Duncan was not entirely to blame. The speaker thought that Mr. Duncan was taking too much on himself for the omission.

Mr. Duncan, after some discussion, said that quite a lot had been said in the Press with regard to the omission of the phrase, but he wanted it to be clearly understood that none of the officers, so far as he knew, was aware that that sentence had been omitted from the Rule. He thought that they all had sincerely felt that they were correct and were working according to procedure, otherwise he did not think any of them would have voted at the annual general meeting.

Vice President's Position.

A SPLENDID action picture of A. T. Hampson, the British athlete who yesterday established a new world's record of 1 min. 49.8/10th secs. in winning the 800 metres race at the Los Angeles Olympics.

Mr. R. H. Kotewall addressing the meeting then said:

"As the one who presided at the last annual meeting, I should like to explain my own position; and give you my personal views. I took the chair at the meeting by virtue of my office as Vice-President in the absence of the President, Mr. R. M. Dyer. The procedure adopted at the meeting was I am given to understand, the same as that followed at similar meetings in previous years; and it never occurred to me at the time to look up the Rules, no question as to the procedure having been raised before or during the meeting.

I am glad that it has not been suggested by anyone that the Council deliberately adopted the procedure they did at the meeting with a full knowledge of the requirement of the existing Rules. I believe that no one was aware of the altered rule until after the meeting was held. Even Mr. Mok Hing himself, who has taken such a deep interest in the matter, admitted at the extraordinary meeting of clubs held on July 29, that the validity or otherwise of the annual meeting did not occur to him until after it was held. Nevertheless, as the chairman of that meeting, I accept full responsibility.

The Important Phrase.

Mr. Duncan has explained to you the circumstance of the omission from the existing Rules of this all-important sentence: "The officers and Council of the Hongkong Football Association shall be entitled to attend and vote at the annual general meeting or any extraordinary meeting that may be called." The omission had not probably been noticed by anyone until it was discovered, by chance by "Wanderer" who drew attention to it in an article in the Hongkong Telegraph of August 1. We are under an obligation to this gentleman for having called attention to this vital fact, which, to my mind, makes it clear that a case exists for referring the question of the validity of the last election to an extraordinary general meeting for decision. A mistake has been made—though made unwittingly—and it is, I think, up to the Council to take early steps to have it rectified.

Disputes Aplenty.

Gentlemen, we have had more than enough disputes over football matters during the last year or so. These disputes have done and are doing harm not only to local sports, but also to the harmonious relationship between European and Chinese residents, which is so necessary for the life of the Colony. Let us try to begin anew in a spirit of mutual respect and mutual goodwill. Let us put aside all personal feelings, and endeavour to settle once for all any differences that may unfortunately exist, so that concord may once more prevail among all members of the Association, and soccer in Hongkong may resume the proud position it occupied in former years. With this object in view, I think that opportunity should be taken of the proposed extraordinary general meeting, if approved to have all other questions in dispute settled at the same time. This may add other difficult problems to the already difficult problem now before us, but I would rather face and grapple with all difficulties at this juncture than to have disagreements creeping up from time to time in the future. I would therefore suggest that if anyone has any suggestions to make for the improvement of the Association, organisation and rules hereafter you have heard the views of Mr. Sheldon and Mr. Marton, that we will be unanimous in our opinion that what I now suggest is the correct thing to do.

Mr. Duncan then proceeded to read the letters from Mr. Sheldon and Mr. Marton.

Mr. T. G. Stokes enquired whether Mr. Marton had been consulted when the rules were revised last year.

The chairman replied that Mr. Marton had not been consulted until the present dispute. The question of the changing of Rule 5 all fell on him (Mr. Duncan) and it had caused the council a lot of trouble he was prepared to accept all that was coming. The fact was that at the end of the season last year he asked to throw up the rules and he spent a considerable time on the Rules to get them into what he considered a much better sequence than they were before.

Motion Carried.

Mr. Duncan said that he thought they all agreed with the last part of Mr. Kotewall's statement. If there were any existing grievances let them get the whole matter settled right away and let them start afresh. It was two months ago that they had started afresh. As far as he knew all grievances had been washed off the slate and he was looking forward to a period of comradeship as it did not last very long.

It was unanimously decided to call an extraordinary general meeting for the purpose, if thought fit, of declaring the election at the annual general meeting null and void and electing a Council.

Then followed considerable discussion in connexion with the reorganisation of this Association in regard to the constitution of the Council. It was unanimously agreed that councils should be composed of a representative of each of the senior clubs in the League, and, on the suggestion of Capt. G. E. Elliot-Haywood, of three other members representing the Army, Civilian and Chinese clubs in the Junior Divisions.

It was decided that this should be discussed at the extraordinary general meeting which would be called for next Wednesday week.

HOCKEY SEASON'S APPROACH

MAMAK TOURNEY PREPARATIONS

FRIDAY'S MEETING

Preparations for the forthcoming hockey season and the Mamak tournament will be discussed at a general meeting of clubs to be held in Messrs. Jardine's board room at 5.30 p.m. on Friday next. Mr. Owen E. White will preside and Mr. E. V. Marshall (Hon. Secretary) will also be present.

Any hockey club which has not already applied to take part in the Mamak tournament for 1932 is invited to send two representatives to the meeting who will enjoy full voting powers in the election of officers and any other business.

JAPAN WINS

HOPMAN FALLS BEFORE SATO INTERNATIONAL TENNIS

Bournemouth, Aug. 3. Japan's ascendancy gained on the first day's play in the international tennis match against Australia, was maintained to-day, when Jiro Sato defeated Harry Hopman in a five set match.

Sato took a two-set lead after the second had been taken to 18 games, but Hopman rallied well and regained the next two as a result of some fine all-court play. A fierce struggle in the final set saw it go to the Japanese at 10-8. Sproule gained Australia's only success when he beat Kuwabara 6-1, 6-3, 7-5. The Japanese twisted his ankle and was unable to take part in the second doubles match which was consequently abandoned, Japan thus winning the encounter by 4 match to 1.

To-day's results in detail were:

Jiro Sato (Japan) beat H. Hopman (Australia) 6-2, 10-8, 5-7, 6-10, 8-5.

Sproule (Australia) beat Kuwabara (Japan) 6-1, 6-3, 7-5.

LAWN BOWLS

POSTPONED MATCHES ARRANGED

The Spey Royal Cup match between the Craigengower C. C. and the Club de Recreio, which was postponed from yesterday owing to the green being unfit for play, is to take place on Sunday afternoon at 3.30 p.m. on the Kowloon C. C. green.

Next Monday, the postponed match between A. M. Holland and R. F. Luz is to be played on the Kowloon C. C. green, while on Tuesday H. Nish will meet R. S. Nichol on the Kowloon B. G. C. green.

BROOKLAND THRILLS

Sir Henry Birkin's Miraculous Escape

The few people who had crowded on to the narrow Byfleet footbridge over Brooklands track during a recent Saturday's meeting had one of the greatest thrills in motor-racing when they saw a tyre of Sir Henry Birkin's Bentley throw its tread as the car was actually passing beneath them.

Sir Henry had started from scratch in the ninth event—the Duke of York's Race—and was rapidly overtaking the limit cars. He was making a supreme effort to overhaul Mr. J. R. Cobb, who was driving magnificently in the big Delage, and had taken the banking at something over 135 miles an hour, skirting the extreme top edge.

When the car was about 50 yards from the bridge a piece of rubber about 2ft. long shot into the air from the rear off-side wheel. Other pieces followed, and the yellow canvas could be seen on the tread. There was tense anxiety for a few moments; but Sir Henry Birkin held the car on its course, and succeeded in slowing down without difficulty. He said afterwards that a piece of the flying rubber had hit him on the arm. The race was won by Mr. A. F. Ashby in a Riley, with Mr. J. R. Cobb second, and the Hon. Brian Lewis in a Talbot third.

The race for the Duchess of York's trophy brought a record entry of women drivers, and apparently as a delicate compliment to the competitors, it was started some minutes late. The winner was Miss E. Ellison in a Bugatti, while Mrs. K. Petre in a Wolseley was second, and Miss J. C. Schwedler in an Alvis third.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Benita Hume, popular English stage and screen star, was introduced to her first American audience while in a bath tub. She plays a leading role with Leslie Howard and Elizabeth Allan in Paramount's "Reserved for Ladies", which comes to the King's Theatre next Sunday. Her first appearance on the American screen took place while she was splashing about in a huge marble tub, in water discreetly sonny.

Miss Hume is well liked by English picture fans. Her recent performance in the picture, "High Tension", added materially to her popularity. Her stage successes are numerous and include the recent London play, "Symphony in Two Flats", in which she played opposite Ivor Novello. "Leathernecking."

Tiller's Sunshine Girls—sixty dancing beauties from England—make their debut in "Leathernecking", opening to-day at the Queen's Theatre.

Forty-two thousand highly trained dancers have been given to almost every country under the sun through the Tiller organization, according to Mary Read, director and manager of the Tiller Schools in the United States.

In the Tiller group under contract to Radio Pictures are Mabel Hall, Doris Carter, Alice Wright, Coni Neary, Noreen Callow, Olara Gillett, Florence Stock, Freda Neary, Eileen Grady, Doris Yates, Dolly Mosley, Louise Gillett, Muriel Marlow, India Pilling, Queenie Jones and Marjorie Griffiths.

"It is the ambition of almost every English girl to be selected for the Tiller dancing schools," Miss Read says. "It means travelling all over the world, healthful work and excellent pay."

The average height of the dancers is 5 feet 2 inches; weight 108 pounds; age 22. All are fair and require little makeup away from the cameras. "Precision and discipline" are the Tiller watchwords.

"The World and the Flesh."

The amazing events which followed immediately the assassination of Russia's royal palaces by noblemen and aristocrats have been screened to help make a talking picture more authentic. Four reels of actual scenes filmed during those red days were projected on a screen at the Paramount studios so that George Bancroft's next picture, "The World and the Flesh," could be realistically depicted. The showing was attended by the star, Director John Cromwell and representatives of the casting, wardrobe and architectural departments.

Alfred Santell directed "Polly of the Circus" in which Gable appears in support of Miss Davies. Included in the cast are C. Aubrey Smith, Raymond Hatton, David Lamarr, Ruth Selwyn, Maude Eburne, Gunga Williams and Ray Milland.

the boat is the success we hope, to take another leap. We are certainly not at the limit."

"Will the largest aircraft always be flying boats?"

"Yes, for the reason that all the sea is in your aerodrome. The very highest speeds are always likely to be achieved by seaplanes also, because only on the sea is there a sufficiently large taking-off and landing area."

which will open on Sunday at the Queen's Theatre.

Gable's hobby is horsemanship. He is an ardent poloist and now has a string of ponies. He also is devoted to dogs. He is rated as a good golfer and swimmer. He is quiet and modest and seldom conveys to personal appearances. Off the screen he is usually seen with a pipe in his mouth and clad in sports shirt and corduroy trousers. He likes to attend the theatre but admits he doesn't care, particularly for grand opera. He is not anxious to become a star but hopes to "make enough money to be independent when he retires from the stage and screen."

Alfred Santell directed "Polly of the Circus" in which Gable appears in support of Miss Davies. Included in the cast are C. Aubrey Smith, Raymond Hatton, David Lamarr, Ruth Selwyn, Maude Eburne, Gunga Williams and Ray Milland.

"One Hour with You."

Jeanette MacDonald, credited with having one of the most beautiful voices on the screen to-day, almost made her film debut in a straight, non-singing, dramatic role.

This the golden-haired actress revealed recently while rehearsing opposite Maurice Chevalier in the modern song romance, "One Hour with You," at the Paramount studios in Hollywood.

It is a significant fact that just as soon as Lubitsch was assigned to direct the production of Chevalier's new pictures, he made arrangements for Miss MacDonald to be cast in the leading feminine roles.

In "One Hour with You," which is the King's Theatre's feature to-day, Chevalier and Miss MacDonald again head the cast in a musical comedy-drama, similar in type of "The Love Parade."

"Madonna of the Streets."

"Madonna of the Streets," the film adopted from the story "The Ragged Messenger" by W. B. Maxwell, is showing at the Central Theatre to-day. It is a Columbia release which features the following prominent stars—Evelyn Brent, Robert Ames and Josephine Dunn.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

to the site where 50' yards back from the street stood the massive grey stone dwelling.

Dan Phillips whistled shortly as he turned the roadster into the drive. "Nice cottage," he said. "Must be about the size of Buckingham Palace."

"Really, Dan," Cherry's voice was a trifle unsteady, "I think I'd better go in alone."

"Can't let you do it."

Exactly before the cobblestone walk he brought the roadster to a halt. Cherry still wore her coat with one arm in its sleeve and the other dangling. The creamy tweed was smudged with dark marks. Her hat was not quite at the proper angle and her nose and cheeks were steaming and powerless.

Together they walked to the entrance. Before Cherry could put a hand on the door it swung open. A middle-aged woman wearing a cape and apron appeared. "Your mother's waiting for you, Miss Cherry," she said. "You'd better go right into the living room." Seeing the empty coat sleeve, she exclaimed, "Oh, has anything happened?"

"It's all right, Martha. In the living room, you said?"

The servant nodded. She seemed to look askance at Phillips but took his hat as the young man followed Cherry through the broad hall.

He caught a hasty impression of dark woodwork and rich, subdued colourings. The furniture looked like old stuff—"antiques," Phillips told himself though he had no knowledge of period decoration.

There was a fireplace at the opposite side of the long room they entered. Yellow, dancing flames flickered on the grate. There was a bowl of red tulips on a table. Standing near the table was a small, slender woman dressed in grey. She was very much like Cherry. Brown eyes—the same oval face—and yet there was a difference. More than the difference between age and youth.

"Cherry!" the woman cried. "How could you do this?"

The girl advanced. "I'm terribly sorry, Mother. Everything's all right, really! Mr. Phillips insisted on coming himself to tell you—!"

"Mr. Phillips?"

"Oh, I forgot. Excuse me. This is Mr. Phillips—of the Newspaper, Mr. Phillips, my mother."

The older woman did not put out her hand. Her features seemed to freeze into place. "Of—the—Newspaper!" she repeated, bringing out each word separately. "Not—not a REPORTER!"

Dan stopped forward. "I'm afraid I'll have to plead guilty, Mrs. Dixon. That's what I am, all right. And it's my fault. Cherry got into this mix-up this afternoon. She hadn't a thing to do with it."

Mrs. Dixon turned toward her daughter. "Cherry," she said frigidly, "who is this man and why has he come here?"

"Why, I told you, Mother. He's Mr. Phillips. He came because he wanted to tell you just what happened."

"And what did happen? Didn't you tell me you were going to a Guild meeting at Gretchen Alden's? And wasn't Gretchen herself here three hours ago?" For the first time, apparently, Mrs. Dixon noticed the girl's flapping coat sleeve and generally dishevelled appearance. "Cherry!" she exclaimed.

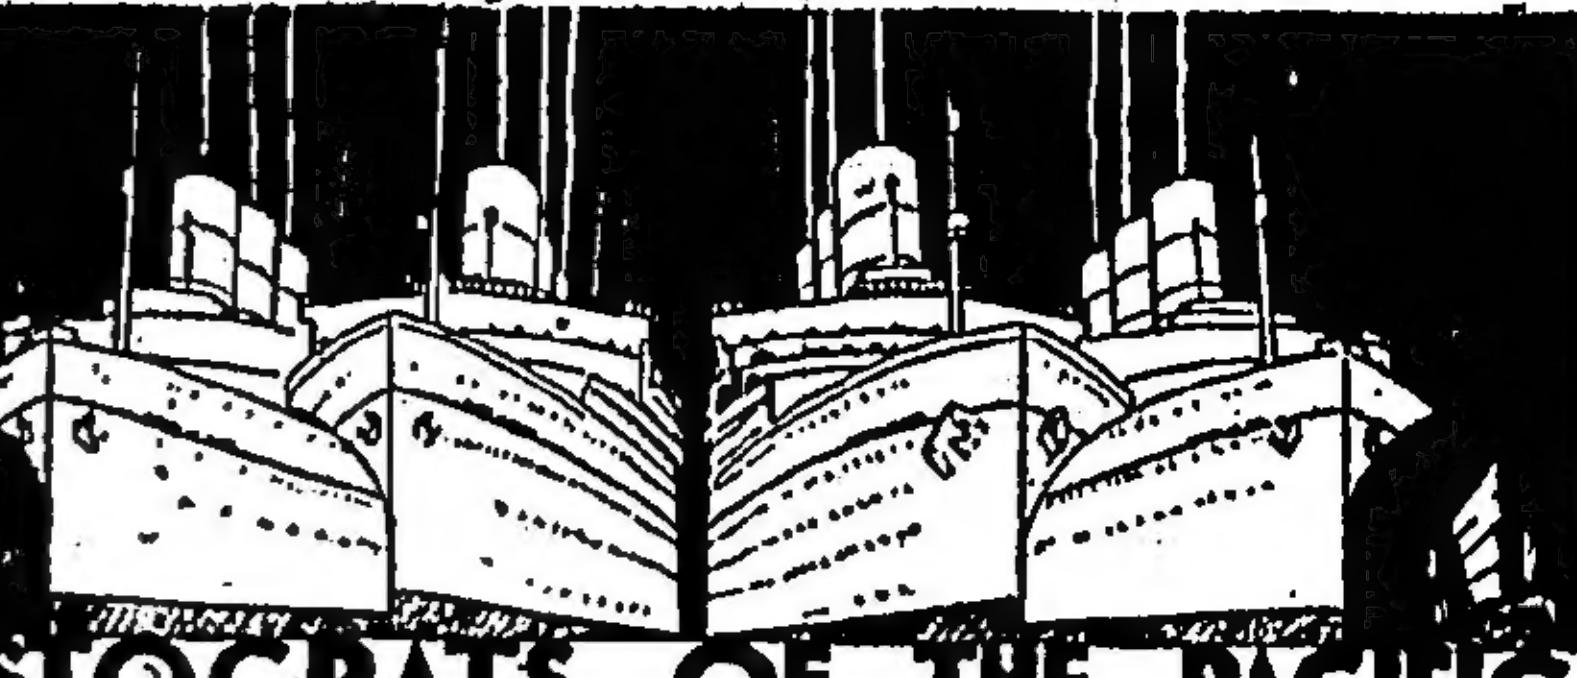

"She's been with me, Mrs. Dixon. There was an accident and Cherry hurt her arm. A doctor dressed it but he said she should have rest and quiet. Shock, you know. She—Cherry—what's the meaning of you about everything?"

Mrs. Dixon was at her daughter's bedside, was helping her out of her coat. She cried out at sight of the bandaged arm.

"It's—all right, Mother. It isn't anything—"

There was a sound in the doorway. All three of them turned. A tall man, livid-faced, strode forward. In one hand he held a crumpled newspaper. He cried out, "Hakone Maru Friday, 5th August.

The 26th Industries Fair was held at Utrecht in March, this year. The number of participants increased from 1,349 in the spring fair of 1931 to 1,558. The number of visitors rose to about 126,000, an increase of 26 per cent. compared to the number of visitors of the spring fair of 1931.

The exhibition space has increased from 14,000 to 16,760 square metres.

The Industries Fair is international in character as may be learnt from the following figures of the participants:
Holland (1,078), Germany (213), France (109), Great Britain (57), Austria (32), Belgium (23), United States of America (21), the balance being made up by Denmark, Finland, Yugoslavia, Norway, Spain, Czechoslovakia, Africa, Sweden and Switzerland.

There were no exhibits from China,
Japan and Siam.

The fair enjoys enhanced popularity and the volume of business done is continually on the increase.

The next fair will be held at

of which Mr. William Perritt (Certificate of Competency as Master No. 001820 of Glasgow) was Master, left the Ping On Wharf on 9.55 p.m. on 26th July, 1932, on a voyage to Canton.

Having straightened up, she proceeded down the Southern Fairway in a course to pass South of No. B. 7 Buoy. On approaching No. B. 7 Buoy she sighted the tug Henry Kewick of which Mr. Allen MacInnes (Certificate of Competency as Master No. 3287 of Hongkong) was Master, fine on her starboard bow, Henry Kewick at this time showing towing lights. Tin Yat on reaching No. B. 7 Buoy altered course to NW 1/2 W. and increased speed to full speed. Proceeding on this course the Tin Yat came into collision with the tug Edith which was made fast alongside the a.s. Hirundo, a ship being towed by the tug Henry Kewick.

We find that a sufficiently sharp lookout was not kept by the a.s. Tin Yat.

We further find that having observed the Henry Kewick on his starboard bow on approaching B. 7 Buoy Mr. William Perritt should have maintained his course and speed.

Inside, the Superintendent found that it took the occupants ten minutes to find the keys to the doors, giving access to the exit stair-case. In addition, he found that alterations had been made which were not shown on the plan approved by the Building Authority and the Fire Brigade.

Mr. Fitzhenry, in conclusion, asked his Worship to take a serious view of the matter.

His Worship imposed the maximum fine of $100.

PTEROL KEPT IN A RUBBER FACTORY.

The danger of keeping petrol in a building with doors locked and barred was emphasised by Mr. J. C. Fitzhenry, Superintendent of the Fire Brigade, at the Kowloon Magistracy before Mr. Fraser yesterday, when Tang Shiu-shu, the owner of a rubber factory, was summoned for unlawfully keeping a quantity of petrol without a valid licence.

Mr. Fitzhenry informed his Worship that he inspected defendant's premises on July 26 and found the doors locked and barred. Employees were at work inside. He eventually gained access to the building through an Indian watchman, who produced the keys and opened the door.

Mr. Fitzhenry pointed out that in view of the highly inflammable liquids which were littered about the ground floor, if fire occurred, it was fairly certain to be accompanied by a large number of fatalities.

Inside, the Superintendent found that it took the occupants ten minutes to find the keys to the doors, giving access to the exit stair-case. In addition, he found that alterations had been made which were not shown on the plan approved by the Building Authority and the Fire Brigade.

Mr. Fitzhenry, in conclusion, asked his Worship to take a serious view of the matter.

His Worship imposed the maximum fine of $100.

ARREST OF AN EX-M.P.

KENYA CHARGE OF KIDNAPPING

Nairobi, July 8.
Mr. Ian MacIntyre, formerly M.
P. for West Edinburgh, who was arrested here on Saturday, was today remanded on bail in connexion with charges of kidnapping.

The affair arises out of recent divorce proceedings, in which Mr.
P. Bonfield, a Kenya settler, obtained a decree against his wife, a daughter of Mr. MacIntyre. Custody of two male children, however, was held over "pending arguments."

Mr. MacIntyre had charge of the children during the proceedings, and it is alleged that he handed them over to his daughter, who handed them over for England.

A warrant for the arrest of Mrs.
Bonfield has been issued to Aden, and an escort is leaving here for Aden on Saturday to conduct her and the children back to Nairobi.

No evidence was offered against
Mr. MacIntyre in the Resident Magistrate's Court here to-day, and the remand was ordered until the return of Mrs. Bonfield.

Mr. MacIntyre, who was born in 1869, has been a Writer to the Signet since 1893, represented
West Edinburgh in Parliament from 1924 till 1929, and has been a member of the Edinburgh Town Council.

RADCLIFFE CAMERA THREATENED

DEATH WATCH BEETLE IN TIMBER BEAMS

The Radcliffe Camera, whose dome is a prominent landmark of Oxford, has just been saved in time.

The discovery that the death-watch beetle was attacking buildings as different as the medieval University Church, the Bodleian
Library, and the classical chapel of Trinity College led to an examination of other Oxford buildings. It was found that the timber beams which support the massive leaded dome of the Camera James Gibb's masterpiece, were being attacked by the death-watch beetle, and whole timbers were de-cayed.

Fortunately the damage had only begun to spread, most of the beams

'FORGOTTEN' IN PRISON

VANISHED ENGLISHWOMAN FOUND

Nice, July 7.
Mrs. Elsie Rider, the Englishwoman who was reported missing a fortnight ago and for whom the police have been searching the French Riviera fruitlessly ever since, was discovered to-day—in Apparently forgotten by the examining magistrate who had ordered her arrest on a theft charge.

Mrs. Rider had been awaiting trial and her whereabouts were disclosed to her husband only when she appeared for trial this afternoon.

As reported in the Neus Chronicle, Mrs. Rider's husband informed the police and the British consulates all along the Riviera on June 29 that his wife was missing.
She has lived at Roquebrune for the past three years.

Police inquiries were made without result.

Magistrates Memory.

The mystery was cleared up today when, escorted by two policemen, the "missing" woman was brought for trial before the Correctional Court here on a charge of stealing a few objects from a Nice shop.

It was not until to-day that the examining magistrate, who, presumably, had forgotten this case of little importance, sent Mrs.
Rider before a judge.

She was sentenced to 15 days imprisonment, but was given the benefit of the First Offenders Act and released.

French examining magistrates have the power to arrest and keep in prison until trial—which may take place long afterwards—any person they have reason to believe being in surprisingly good condition after their two centuries of use.

Now that the vacation has begun, work on the Dome is taking place on a larger scale, and scaffolding almost envelops it. All seriously damaged timber is being replaced, and the remaining beams are being sprayed under expert supervision in the hope that it is not too late to save them from the beetles.

THE PROFESSOR'S REVENGE

ZOOLOGIST FIRES AT PALAEO-BILOGIST

Vienna, June 30.
The new Rector of Vienna University, Professor Abel, who occupies the chair of Palaeo-biology, was fired at to-day, by the Professor of Zoology, Dr. Schneider, as the Rector was unveiling a monument to the late Professor Wettstein, a distinguished botanist, in Vienna cemetery.

Professor Abel probably owes his life to the presence of mind of the Burgomaster of Vienna, Dr. Seitz. The Rector was making his memorial speech when an elderly man pressed forward across the graves, raised a revolver and fired, saying: "Now, at last, we will settle our differences."

The first shot missed Professor Abel's head by some inches. The assailant was immediately recognised as Professor Schneider. Before the zoologist could fire a second time, the Burgomaster had seized his arm and forced it down to his side.

The zoologist was hurried off to the police station, where he confessed that he had long intended to murder the new Rector because he and Professor Wettstein had prevented his elevation from the rank of supernumerary professor to "ordinary professor."

DEATH OF THE EARL OF DUDLEY

PARLIAMENTARY VACANCY AT WEDNESBURY.

The Earl of Dudley, who had been Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and Governor-General of Australia, died in a Park-lane nursing home at the age of 65.

Lord Dudley's death creates a Parliamentary vacancy at Wednesbury, as his successor, Viscount Ednam, was M.P. for that constituency.

The figures at the General Election were:

Viscount Ednam (C) ... 25,000

A Short (Soc.) 20,842

Conservative majority 4,158
